DMB welcomes new Chief Deputy Director

LANSING – The Michigan Department of Management and Budget (DMB) welcomes a new Chief Deputy Director. Ed Dore comes to the department from Ingham County, where he currently serves as County Controller/Administrator. Prior to that appointment, Dore served as Chief Deputy Director for the Michigan Department of Community Health.

"We are excited Ed has agreed to join DMB. Ed has a consistent track record in providing outstanding leadership and direction for organizational development, reviewing and improving operational effectiveness and customer service, as well as building interpersonal relationships across state department and agencies," said DMB Director Lisa Webb Sharpe. "DMB will benefit from Ed's skills and expertise. He is truly a gifted administrator."

In his new role, Dore will be responsible for the implementation of DMB's mission, policies, strategic plans, directives, and budget oversight. He also acts on behalf of the DMB Director in her absence.

Dore also served as President of the Ingham Regional Healthcare Foundation; Deputy Secretary of State and Chief Operating Officer for the Michigan Department of State; and Deputy Chief Financial Officer and Executive Assistant to the Wayne County Executive. He received a Bachelor of Arts degree, with honors, from the University of Michigan, and a Masters in Public Administration, with distinction, from Wayne State University.

Dore replaces Phyllis Mellon, who is leaving to become the Chief Deputy Director for the Michigan Department of Agriculture. He joins DMB on January 8, 2007.
